INSTRUCTIONS FOR
DIRECT/INDIRECT BENEFIT ACTIVITIES REPORT

Definition of Direct Benefit Activity - a direct benefit activity is defined as an activity which requires the beneficiary to submit an application or complete a personal record as an integral part of receiving the benefit of an activity. For example, in a housing rehabilitation program, an application is an essential part of determining need and eligibility. Other types of direct benefit activities would include relocation and payment of special assessments.

Definition of Indirect Benefit Activity - an indirect benefit activity is defined as an activity for which an individual receives direct benefit but is not required to apply for the benefit. This would include residents on a street that is reconstructed or households hooked-up to a new water main. The activity is directed to the benefit of everyone, and no one is singled out to receive specific assistance. Other types of indirect benefit activities would include removal of architectural barrier projects, senior citizens projects, and area-wide activities in which at least 51% of the persons or households to be served are low and moderate income.
